It was only until a few months ago that I was a shy, reserved person. I was always the quiet one in the room, the one who stayed in the background. But then, I met you. You were the one who saw me for who I really was, not just a shy girl, but a person with a lot of potential. You were the one who encouraged me to step out of my comfort zone and to be who I truly am. You were the one who taught me that it's okay to be vulnerable and to let people see the real me. You were the one who showed me that love is not just a feeling, but a choice. You were the one who made me believe in myself and in our future. You were the one who made me realize that I was never alone. You were the one who made me remember who I am and who I want to be. You were the one who made me fall in love with life again. You were the one who made me remember that I am loved. You were the one who made me remember that I am not just a number, but a person. You were the one who made me remember that I am special. You were the one who made me remember that I am unique. You were the one who made me remember that I am beautiful. You were the one who made me remember that I am strong. You were the one who made me remember that I am capable. You were the one who made me remember that I am worthy. You were the one who made me remember that I am enough. You were the one who made me remember that I am home. You were the one who made me remember that I am loved. You were the one who made me remember that I am not just a number, but a person. You were the one who made me remember that I am special. You were the one who made me remember that I am unique. You were the one who made me remember that I am beautiful. You were the one who made me remember that I am strong. You were the one who made me remember that I am capable. You were the one who made me remember that I am worthy. You were the one who made me remember that I am enough. You were the one who made me remember that I am home. You were the one who made me remember that I am loved.
